Artist of the Month

Selinea Farmer

Selinea Farmer grew up creating art at a young age inspired by her surroundings in the desert hills of New Mexico. She graduated from the Institute of American Indian Arts in Santa Fe, NM. She then went on to work alongside the collection of the Smithsonian's National Museum of the American Indian and then to study under a full scholarship at Lacoste School of the Arts in Provençe, France.

“I work primarily in Watercolor and Acrylics as my chosen mediums. With a background in printmaking and photography, I have been bridging my work with the digital realm for select pieces. I hold a great affection for color, utilizing it to express the essence of an emotion or the elemental tone for a piece. Emotionally charged subject matter created through the structure of people and animals, along with the creatures that live in my imagination, tend to become the focus of what comes to life in my studio.”

Message from the Manassas Art Guild President

Thanks to all artists who participated in hanging art at City Hall. We had a small article written on the show in the Bull Run observer and mentions all artists who participated: Maureen Guillot, Herald Grandstaff, Laura Lavarney, Janet Hansen Martinet, Stephanie McGhee, Ann Null, Connie Ryman, Marti Whitehead.

Congratulate the artists who entered the banner competition. I heard there were 120 submissions and HMI selected 60 paintings to be made into banners. The following MAG members entered and got art accepted: Maureen Guillot, Laura Lavarney, Janet Hansen Martinet, Peter Smolens.
